A by-election for the Niddrie State District was triggered by the resignation, on 27 January 2012, of the sitting member, the Honourable Rob Hulls. The election-ready positioning of the Victorian Electoral Commission (VEC) planning, processes and systems, the strong capabilities of VEC staff, and solid partnerships with our suppliers and contractors all feature as key components of the successful conduct of the Niddrie District by-election on 24 March 2012. Compulsory voting follow up has commenced, so costs have not been finalised at the time of printing. It is anticipated that the by-election will be conducted well within budget.

A communication campaign that included a householder letter and a range of newspaper advertisements helped ensure that electors were aware of details of the by-election, their voting options and the result. Information was available in a range of languages and through an interpreter telephone service.

Nine candidates nominated for the by-election. The Australian Labor Party, the Democratic Labor Party, The Australian Greens, the Christian Party and the Sex Party each endorsed a candidate. Four independent candidates also nominated. Ben Carroll, the candidate for the Australian Labor Party — Victorian Branch, who polled 46.84% of the first preference votes, was elected at the fourth exclusion.

The turnout rate of 84.80% for the by-election was lower than the turnout rate of 93.63% for the Niddrie District in the 2010 State election. The turnout rate for the Niddrie by-election was higher than the average turnout of 80.65% for the five most recent State by-elections. More information about the participation rate can be found in Section 11 of this report.

The informality rate of 11.48%, with nine candidates, was an increase from the informality rate of 8.31% for the Niddrie District with nine candidates at the 2010 State election. The informality rate was also higher than the average informality rate of 7.00% for the five most recent State by-elections (excluding Niddrie). An analysis of the informal votes was conducted and the results can be found in Section 15 of this report.

At the by-election, scannable paper roll mark-off was for the first time replaced entirely with electronic mark-off using netbooks. This worked very well at voting centres and enabled on-line reporting of votes issued to be instantly available to voting centre managers, along with speedy ballot paper reconciliation following the close of voting. Also, the risk of a voter being marked off the roll more than once is eliminated.

An added benefit is that for the first time, the VEC is able to obtain rich data about the flow of voters through voting centres individually or as a group, which will assist with being able to estimate staffing requirements more accurately at future elections.

I take this opportunity to thank all VEC staff, contractors and suppliers, Election Manager, Chris Browne and Assistant Election Managers, Jen Missing and Ted Marks for their contributions to the very successful conduct of the Niddrie District by-election.

This is the last election report I will prepare for the Parliament, given that I will be taking up an appointment in South Australia. I acknowledge the support I have received from all those I have dealt with.

Preliminary arrangements with other agencies

Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal

The VEC made preliminary arrangements with the Victorian Civil and Administrative Tribunal (VCAT) to ensure that any matters relating to how-to-vote cards could be heard within a 24 hours period. The VEC thanks VCAT for its support during the election.

Victorian Government Solicitor’s Office

The VEC made preliminary arrangements with the Victorian Government Solicitor’s Office (VGSO) to have a senior legal advisor on standby 24 hours a day during the election period, to ensure that any matters were dealt with in a timely fashion. The VEC thanks the VGSO for its support during the election.

Victoria Police

The VEC contacted the Chief Commissioner of Police to request a discreet police presence at all voting centres during the hours of voting on election day. The VEC provided a list of voting venues to Victoria Police to assist with this request. The VEC formally records its appreciation for the support received from the Chief Commissioner and Victoria Police.

Supreme Court

The VEC made preliminary arrangements with the Supreme Court, through the Department of Justice to ensure that a Practice Court and presiding judge would be available to hear any applications for injunctions as the need may arise on election day. The VEC thanks the Department and the Supreme Court for its support.
The former member

The Hon. Rob Hulls represented the District of Niddrie from 1996 to 2012. Mr Hulls was Deputy Leader of the Labor Party, Deputy Leader of the Opposition and Shadow Minister for Education December 2010 – January 2012. He has held the offices of Attorney-General; Minister for Manufacturing Industry and Minister for Racing from 1999–2002; Minister for WorkCover from 2002–2005; Minister for Planning from January 2005–December 2006; Minister for Racing from December 2006 – November 2010 and Minister for Industrial Relations from December 2002 – November 2010.

Mr Hulls served one term in Federal Parliament from 1990–93 as the member for Kennedy, Queensland. In 1994 he was appointed Chief of Staff to the Victorian Opposition Leader, Jim Kennan, the former Attorney-General, who resigned from State Parliament shortly after. Mr Hulls stayed on as Chief of Staff under Mr Kennan’s replacement, John Brumby, who was Victoria’s State Premier from 2007–2010.

Mr Hulls was appointed as Deputy Premier on 30 July 2007 after the retirement of John Thwaites, and served as Deputy Premier under John Brumby. He held the position of Attorney-General until the change of Government at the 2010 State election.

The electorate

The Niddrie District is a metropolitan electorate located approximately eight kilometres northwest of Melbourne. It covers an area of around 34 square kilometres, and includes the suburbs or localities of Airport West, Avondale Heights, Essendon West, Kealba, Keilor East, Keilor Park, Niddrie and parts of the suburbs of Essendon, Tullamarine and Keilor.

The District encompasses residential and industrial areas, a number of recreational reserves, including Brimbank Park, and several large shopping centres. Natural features include the Maribyrnong River.

The VEC estimated a marginal cost of $350,000 to conduct the by-election, plus electoral entitlements. A full report of costs for the Niddrie District by-election will be provided in the VEC Annual Report.

3. BUDGET
Enrolment

The day after the issue of the writ for Niddrie District, the Victorian Electoral Commission (VEC) sent written notification of the by-election to every household in the electorate. The letter advised that, since a by-election would be held soon, eligible people who were not on the electoral roll should enrol, and those who had recently moved should update their enrolment details. This provided four working days for electors to ensure that they were correctly enrolled and eligible to vote in the by-election.

Enrolment advertisements were placed in both the major daily papers (see Appendix D for communication products relating to enrolment).

Enrolment forms could be downloaded from the VEC website (vec.vic.gov.au), and printed copies were available from Australia Post offices, Australian Electoral Commission (AEC) divisional offices or by contacting the VEC election office.

The VEC election office remained open until 8.00pm on Thursday, 1 March. The VEC also made arrangements with the AEC Melbourne office and the AEC divisional offices in Sunbury and Moonee Ponds to remain open until 8.00pm on Thursday, 1 March.

Between the issue of the writ and the close of rolls, 318 electors enrolled or updated their enrolment details. At the close of roll, there were 36,808 electors enrolled, three more than at the close of roll for the 2010 State election.

Voting

Election day Voting Centres

Electors could vote at any of the thirteen voting centres open across the District on election day.

The VEC used electronic roll mark-off exclusively for the first time at this by-election, and the pattern of voting at each voting centre can be seen in Appendix E.

Data collected this way will assist the VEC with assessing staffing requirements and vote issuing tables at future elections. See Section 9 for more on electronic roll mark-off.

A small number of electors attempted to vote at early voting centres, which were not open on election day. Although this information was included in communication products, the VEC will review its advertising to more clearly communicate the information and minimise confusion in the future.

Services for electors with special needs

In line with the VEC’s Disability Action Plan, services provided to electors with special needs at the Niddrie District by-election included:

- Large pencils for people with hand mobility impairment
- Provision of magnifying sheets for electors with low vision
- Wheelchair-height voting booths at each voting centre
- Chairs made available within the voting centre for those unable to queue or stand while waiting to vote
- Staff trained to assist electors with mobility issues, requiring seating or having difficulty voting.

Every early voting centre and election day voting centre is rated, using an audit tool, according to its wheelchair accessibility. The audit tool complies with relevant Australian Standards and addresses building access as well as the availability of accessible parking and the approach to the building.

One early voting centre was rated as ‘Fully Wheelchair Accessible’, the other was rated ‘Assisted Wheelchair Accessible’.
Of the 13 election day voting centres in Niddrie District, three were ‘Fully Wheelchair Accessible’, eight were rated ‘Assisted Wheelchair Accessible’, and two were rated as having ‘No Wheelchair Access’.

The rating of all voting centres was listed in press advertisements, on the letter sent to electors and on the VEC website.

The lack of fully accessible voting centres for lease continues to be of concern to the VEC.

Services for electors from non-English speaking backgrounds

According to the Australian Bureau of Statistics 2006 Census results, 6.30% of the usually resident population of Niddrie District has low or no proficiency in English. At the 2006 Census, English was stated as the only language spoken at home by 59.31% of persons usually resident in Niddrie District.

The most common languages other than English spoken at home were Italian, Greek, Vietnamese, Cantonese and Mandarin, Arabic, and Maltese.

Advertising in print media included multi-lingual telephone enquiry service numbers that operate all year round. These numbers were also incorporated on the enrolment and voting letters sent to householders/electors in Niddrie.

Translated introductory information on the by-election was recorded in each of the languages advertised, with callers able to hold the line for interpreter assistance via a three-way phone call between the staff at the Victorian Interpreting and Translating Service, the VEC and the caller.

Electors could also access voting instructions translated into the main languages spoken in the District and placed inside each voting screen.

Across 12 of the 13 election day voting centres, 25 election staff spoke a language other than English and were on hand to assist with interpreting where required.

Arrangements for voting before election day

Early voting

Electors unable to vote on election day had the opportunity to vote early at the early voting centre located within the District, and at the election office in Melbourne.

The early voting centres for the Niddrie District by-election were located at:

- Niddrie Early Voting Centre (FWA)
  67L Matthews Avenue
  Airport West
- Melbourne CBD Early Voting Centre (AWA)
  Level 11, 530 Collins Street
  Melbourne

Early voting centres were open between 8.30am and 6.00pm, Monday to Friday from Friday, 9 March. Extended opening hours were available on Saturday, 17 March, 9.00am to 2.00pm and Thursday, 22 March, 8.30am to 8.00pm.

There was no early voting on the Labor Day public holiday (Monday, 12 March).

A total of 4,161 electors (11.30% of total enrolment) voted early, in person, for the by-election, compared with 5,751 (15.63% of total enrolment) for the 2010 State election. Reasons for early voting, provided by electors, included having to work, or planning to be interstate or overseas on election day.

Mobile voting

A total of 46 electors took advantage of mobile voting, with a mobile voting team visiting six venues in the week prior to election day.

Voting interstate and overseas

Early voting services were provided at seven interstate locations and at one overseas location.

A total of 17 early votes were cast outside Victoria for the Niddrie District by-election. This compares with two for the District for the 2010 State election.

Postal voting

Electors unable to attend a voting centre on election day could apply for a postal vote. Postal vote applications were available to download at vec.vic.gov.au, and could be obtained at any post office in the District or by calling the VEC. Postal voting applications were also printed and distributed by the Australian Labor Party.

As was the case at the 2010 State election, no postal votes were issued outside the State for the Niddrie District by-election. To help ensure the efficient delivery of ballot packs, postal vote applications were processed on the day they were received by the VEC. As postal vote applications may be received up until 6.00pm the Thursday prior to the election, the VEC contacted anyone whose application was received on that day to advise them that their vote had to be postmarked before or on election day to be included in the count, and to inform them of their voting options.

A total of 3,209 postal vote applications plus 809 votes by general postal voters were processed, and 3,216 postal votes were counted for the by-election. This compares with 2,218 counted for electorate for the 2010 State election.

Provisional votes

Legislative changes introduced in 2010 enabled votes to be cast by electors who were not on the roll and who claimed to be entitled to enrol and vote.

Votes cast in this manner were classified as ‘provisional’ votes until the elector’s enrolment details could be verified through confirmation by VicRoads, an electricity utility or a council. A total of 238 provisional votes (78.29% of the 304 provisional votes received) were admitted to the count.
SERVICES TO REGISTERED POLITICAL PARTIES AND CANDIDATES

Election Managers

Ms Chris Browne was appointed the Election Manager for Niddrie District. Ms Jen Missing and Mr Ted Marks were appointed as Assistant Election Managers.

The Election Manager was responsible for:

• Staffing the election office
• Receiving candidate nominations
• Conducting the draw for ballot paper positions
• Dealing with electoral enquiries
• Appointing voting centre managers and election officials
• Training voting centre managers
• Receipt of how-to-vote cards for registration by the VEC
• Supervising voting, and receiving and recording results
• Declaring the election
• The Election Manager was assisted by VEC staff and other election officials.

Candidate support

Nine candidates nominated for the Niddrie District by-election, the same number as for the District in the 2010 State election.

Candidate nomination forms could be completed online on the VEC website or could be obtained by calling the VEC directly. Parties nominated their candidates directly with the VEC and independent candidates nominated through the election office.

The VEC provided a handbook explaining aspects of electoral law directly relating to candidates. Candidates also received a VEC Candidates’ Kit containing:

• A how-to-vote card declaration
• An ‘Appointment of Scrutineer’ form
• An Electoral Roll Confidentiality Agreement
• A list of voting centres (and early voting centres) in the District
• Estimated votes and the number of issuing points at each voting centre
• Election Manager contact details
• A Nomination of an Independent Candidate for the Legislative Assembly (by six electors) form
• A District fact sheet.

After nominating and upon request, candidates were provided with a copy of the electoral roll for the District, on CD Rom, for the purposes of campaigning – in compliance with section 33(6) of the Electoral Act 2002.

During the nomination period, one candidate (Frank Papafotiou) changed his status from Independent to Christian Democrats. All paperwork was completed and lodged in accordance with legislation and VEC procedures.
Registration of how-to-vote cards

How-to-vote cards that are distributed within 400 metres of a voting centre on election day must be registered with the VEC. Political parties were required to register how-to-vote cards directly with the VEC, while independent candidates could submit their cards with the Election Manager for registration by the VEC.

A how-to-vote card Checklist was provided in each candidate’s handbook, to ensure that all cards were correct, authorised and properly registered.

A total of 16 how-to-vote cards were registered for the Niddrie District by-election (see Figure 2). As required by legislation, all registered how-to-vote cards were published on the VEC website.

By-election briefings for parties and candidates

Registered political parties were invited to attend individual briefing sessions between 23 and 27 February 2012. Four parties participated.

Independent candidates were invited to attend a briefing sessions conducted on 27 February 2012 at the VEC. Three candidates attended.
The Niddrie by-election communication campaign consisted of direct mail, newspaper advertising, a telephone enquiry service, media relations, and information and services provided on the VEC website.

Direct mail

The VEC distributed 20,195 enrolment information letters to households in Niddrie District from 24 February 2012. Following the close of rolls, an EasyVote letter was sent to each elector on the roll (excluding general postal voters).

The EasyVote letter included information about early voting, postal voting, overseas and interstate voting and election day voting arrangements. It also included the location and accessibility rating of all voting centres, and a suggestion that the elector take the letter to the voting centre to help make the voting experience easier.

A total of 35,999 EasyVote letters were lodged for distribution on Friday, 9 March 2012. General postal voters were sent ballot material two business days after nominations closed.

Newspaper advertising

A series of advertisements that met the requirements set out in the Electoral Act 2002 appeared in local newspapers, as well as in The Age and Herald Sun throughout the election period (see Appendix D for placement details and advertisement samples).

Telephone enquiry service

The election office operated a dedicated telephone enquiry service from 24 February 2012. Calls to the office peaked each time a mailout occurred, with electors calling to:

- Check enrolment details
- Ask for advice about what to do if they could not attend a voting centre on election day
- Inquire about the location of election day voting centres.

Media relations

The VEC distributed five media releases to local and State-wide media throughout the election period. A media results advisory notice was also issued. Enquiries relating to the by-election were received from 11 journalists, with most contacting the VEC a number of times throughout the election period and on election night.

The majority of the enquiries concerned the timing of the by-election, where the media could film the count, and when results would be available.

Email information

The VEC received 12 emails via its info email address. These emails related to a range of topics including employment, candidates, voting, political parties and results.
Website

From the day the writ was issued, the VEC website provided information about the by-election for electors in the district, for candidates and for the general public. Traffic to the website increased significantly from February through to election day.

Electors were able to update their enrolment details online via the Australian Electoral Commission website.

Information available online detailed voting obligations, and provided information on options for electors if they could not vote on election day.

Postal vote applications were available for download, and the locations of early (in person) voting centres and all interstate and overseas locations were provided. The online enrolment form was the most frequently used/downloaded item during this period.

Candidate information and nomination forms and how-to-vote cards were also available for download from the website.

Election day voting centres and their accessibility rating were listed, with maps accessible via links showing the physical location of each centre.

Results were made available progressively on the VEC website as they were entered into the VEC election management system.

7. COMPLAINTS

The VEC registered one formal complaint about the Niddrie by-election. The complaint alleged discrimination by a political party. The matter did not proceed.
Support for Election Manager

After appointing the Election Manager, the role of the VEC was to support the Election Manager through the provision of:

- Advice on election management
- Office equipment and furniture, computers, telephones and fax machines, ballot boxes, voting screens and voting centre furniture
- Help desk support and assistance for the VEC’s election management system and with other technical issues
- Electoral materials, including voting centre and office forms and manuals
- A voter information campaign for the by-election
- Assistance with public and media relations
- Netbooks for use in voting centres.

Recruitment and training

A total of 168 staff (including the Election Manager and two Assistant Election Managers) were appointed for the by-election.

Of these, 127 were appointed as election officials at voting centres on election day. A further 38 election casuals were appointed by the Election Manager to assist with early voting at the early voting centres, mobile voting, and administrative duties including counts conducted at the election office.

A three-hour training session was conducted for the voting centre managers, assistant voting centre managers, early voting centre managers and election liaison officers. Election Managers and Assistant Election Managers had previous election experience, and timing did not enable additional training prior to the by-election.

Election officials with responsibility for support of the netbooks in each voting centre attended an additional three-hour training session.

Mobile early voting centre team leaders received training prior to commencing work.

One VEC staff-member provided dedicated help desk support to the Election Manager and Assistant Election Managers during the election period.

The by-election for the State District of Niddrie was the first time that an entire VEC election has been conducted without a single elector being marked off on a scannable paper roll.

All electors were marked off the roll electronically with the vast majority (Early, Mobile and Ordinary) being recorded on Toshiba netbooks wirelessly connected to the VEC on the Next-G network.

The remainder of electors – largely postal, were directly marked off at the VEC using the Election Management System.

On election day, around 70 netbooks were deployed across the 13 voting centres and by close of voting 23,574 votes had been issued.

Early voting using up to three netbooks was conducted at the Early Voting Centre in Matthews Avenue, Airport West.

During the early voting period, 9–24 March, over 4,000 early votes were taken, including 46 votes at six mobile early voting venues in the district, and 151 at the Election Office – Early Voting Centre at 530 Collins St, Melbourne.

Training in the use of netbooks was provided for early voting staff, voting centre managers and election officials using a mixture of face-to-face, paper documents, DVD and video distributed over YouTube.

The aim was to familiarise all users on the operation of the netbooks well in advance of election day and to alert them to the fact that all electors were to be marked off electronically.

The eRoll system and Next-G network performed well during both early voting and election day, with only three calls to help desk, all relating to breaks in network connectivity. Help desk troubleshooting routines are now established and in all cases the system was quickly restored.

User acceptance of the technology was high and there were no reported issues of difficulty in the routine roll-marking operation.
On election day, roll-marking progress was reported in real time and immediately available to users, the Election Manager and to the VEC support team. The recording of a timestamp with each roll mark enabled a comprehensive track of voting behaviour during an election day, as well as an immediate indication of individual user and voting centre activity. On-line reporting of votes issued was instantly available to voting centre managers and ballot paper reconciliation was completed speedily following the close of voting. The use of netbooks for roll mark-off also eliminates the risk of a person voting more than once in their own name. Other than the entry of final postal votes and provisional votes taken on the day, roll mark-off was essentially complete by 6.00pm on election day. With the need for scanning of paper rolls removed, the commencement of compulsory voting follow up will be almost immediate. A few user issues arose, resulting in erroneous issue of provisional votes to people actually on the roll. Procedural errors in search technique or in electronic vote issue may be the cause and these matters will be addressed in all training material for the 2012 Council elections and, if necessary, by modifications to the eRoll interface. See Appendix E for details of number of electors marked off by hour. After the 6.00pm close of voting, the first-preference count took place in the voting centres and the results were phoned through to the election office. A two-candidate-preferred (2CP) count to distribute preferences to the two candidates considered most likely to be in the lead after the distribution of preferences was conducted following each count of first-preference votes. The VEC had initially selected the ALP and The Greens for the 2CP count. After full distribution of preferences, the two leading candidates were Ben Carroll and Andrea Surace. Postal and early votes were counted in the election office on election night in the same count order as in the voting centres. The result of the 2CP count between the ALP and The Greens is included as Appendix C. Declaration votes were checked on the Monday after election day. Declaration votes are all votes other than ‘ordinary votes’, where the voters ‘declare’ their entitlement to vote. There are several different types of declaration votes:
- Postal votes
- Early votes
- Provisional votes — cast by persons who are not on the roll and who claim to be entitled to enrol and vote. A recheck was conducted on all ballot papers on the Monday and Tuesday following the election. As there was not a clear majority, a preference distribution was conducted to determine the result of the election. Ben Carroll (Australian Labour Party – Victorian Branch) was declared the successful candidate on 28 March 2012. The writ was returned on 29 March 2012.
11. PARTICIPATION

The VEC uses three measures to determine participation in the electoral system:

1. Enrolment: the degree to which those who are eligible enrol to vote
2. Turn-out: the degree to which those who are enrolled vote in elections
3. Informality of voting: the degree to which those who vote cast an informal vote.

Enrolment

Between the issue of the writ and the close of rolls, 318 electors enrolled or updated their enrolment details. At the close of roll, there were 36,808 electors enrolled, three more than at the close of roll for the 2010 State election.

See Section 4 of this report for information about enrolment.

Turnout

The turnout rate of 84.80% for the by-election was lower than the turnout rate of 93.63% for the District in the 2010 State election. This is not an unexpected outcome for a by-election and is considered to be due to factors including the short time-frame, more localised advertising and less media coverage overall than for a State election.

The turnout rate for the Niddrie by-election was also higher than the average turnout of 80.65% for the five previous State by-elections.

Informal voting

The informality rate of 11.48% was an increase from the informality rate of 8.31% at the 2010 State election for the Niddrie District. The informality rate for the Niddrie by-election is higher than the average informality rate of 7.00% for the five most recent State by-elections.

An analysis of informal voting at the Niddrie District by-election is included in Section 15 of this report.

12. REFUND OF NOMINATION DEPOSITS

Upon nominating for an election, candidates (or their party) must provide a deposit of $350. This deposit is refunded if the candidate obtains at least 4% of the first preference vote or is elected. Deposits were refunded on 5 April 2012.

Of the nine candidates, seven were refunded their deposit. Two candidates forfeited their deposit with the funds being forwarded to consolidated revenue.
13. ELECTORAL ENTITLEMENTS

An amount of $1.53429 per vote was payable to political parties and independent candidates for this election where candidates obtained at least 4% of the first-preference votes.

An entitlement exists for five (party) candidates and two independent candidates. At the time of this report, only the Australian Labor Party candidate had claimed the entitlement.

14. ENFORCEMENT OF COMPULSORY VOTING

Postal vote declarations received too late for the count, and elector information reports completed at voting centres on election day — detailing elector excuses for not voting — were processed through the compulsory voting module of the Election Management System.

The first stage of the non-voter follow-up process is conducted under Part 9, Division 2 of the Electoral Act 2002.

Subsequent follow-up of electors who do not respond to the ‘Apparent Failure to Vote’ notice or who provide an invalid response is conducted under the Infringements Act 2006.

Electors who are deemed to be non-voters may receive two further notices from the VEC. The first is an Infringement Notice providing notification of liability for a penalty amount (currently set at $61). The second is a penalty reminder notice and includes costs as well as the original penalty.

Payment of penalties may be by cheque, money order, cash, EFTPOS, via the internet using BPAY, or at any Australia Post outlet using the PostBillPay facility.

The first stage of compulsory voting follow-up commenced with 4,239 Apparent Failure to Vote notices mailed out on Tuesday April 17. It is anticipated that enforcement of compulsory voting provisions will be completed by the end of 2012.

Further details of enforcement of compulsory voting provisions at the Niddrie District by-election will be included in the VEC’s Annual Report.
There were 3,584 informal votes at the by-election, comprising 11.48% of total votes. Informal voting was higher in absolute and percentage terms than at the 2010 State election, when there were 2,865 informal votes in Niddrie District (8.31% of the total).

Niddrie had the highest informal voting rate in the State in the 2010 State election. The informal voting rate at the by-election was the highest since the 1990 Thomastown by-election (12.74%), and, from available records, was the second highest informal vote for any electorate in Victorian history. This report attempts to explain the level of the informal voting, particularly the increase at the by-election. The report also describes the types of mistakes that informal voters made and how they varied from those at the 2010 State election.

At State elections, there is a strong correlation between informal voting and the proportion of residents who are not fluent in English. Districts with the highest proportions of residents not proficient in English also tend to have the highest informal voting rates. Some 40% of residents of Niddrie District speak a language other than English at home, and 6.3% of the residents are not fluent in English. Niddrie is ranked sixteenth of the 88 districts in terms of lack of English language proficiency. This factor does not appear to account for the very high informal vote at both the State election and the by-election.

The number and range of candidates can affect the informal voting rate. A large number of candidates can increase the informal vote, through voters making numbering errors. There were nine candidates for both the State election and the by-election. At the State election, the five districts with nine candidates had a median informal voting rate of 5.8%, significantly higher than the Statewide figure of 4.96%. The most important reason for the increase in the informal vote at the by-election appears to be the absence of a Liberal candidate at the by-election. At the State election there were 11,000 Liberal votes in Niddrie, and some of these voters would have voted informally rather than vote for a rival party or candidate. Seventy-five of the informal ballot papers included explicit complaints about the lack of a Liberal candidate.

Informal voting rates varied at voting centres within the district, ranging from 10.8% at Avondale Heights to 15.5% at Kealba. Though informal voting was relatively low at Buckley Park (11.3%) and Keilor (12.4%), which are in more affluent parts of the District, in other areas the variation appears to be rather random, and little related to socio-economic factors or to languages spoken in the area.

The informal voting rate increased at all voting centres between the State election and the by-election, with the greatest being a 5.9 percentage point increase at Keilor South. Generally, the voting centres that had the highest Liberal votes at the State election, such as Keilor, Niddrie Central and Keilor South, showed the steepest increase in informal voting at the by-election. This is another indication that the lack of a Liberal candidate affected the informal vote.

It was a somewhat different story with votes before election day. The proportion of informal early votes increased by 2.9 percentage points to 10.1%. The informal voting rate for postal votes rose only slightly from 5% to 5.7%. The number of such votes increased from 1,721 at the State election to 3,216 (10.3% of the total) at the by-election. Postal votes consistently have lower informal voting rates than ordinary votes, probably because electors voting by post have more time to consider their vote. The high proportion of postal voters at the by-election prevented the overall informal voting rate from rising even more than it did.

In the survey of informal ballot papers, the VEC used the same categories as in its analyses of informal ballot papers since the 2006 State election. These categories are described in Figure 3.
Category Description

Blank The bulk of these ballot papers were presumably deliberately informal, though they might include ballot papers lodged by people who had difficulties with the whole voting process.

Numbers (1 only)
Numbers (insufficient) Ballot papers including insufficient numbers to constitute a formal vote.

Numbers (apparently deliberate) Ballot papers including number sequences such all '1's, or '0', or '1', '10', '300', which indicate an intention to cast an informal vote.

Numbers (other)

Ticks/crosses (preference) Ballot papers indicating a clear preference for a candidate through a single tick or cross.

Ticks/crosses (apparently deliberate) Ballot papers with ticks or crosses in every square, indicating an intention to reject all the candidates.

Ticks/crosses (other)

Writing (apparently deliberate) Ballot papers with writing or drawings indicating opposition to all the candidates, including those with a cross over the whole paper.

Writing (other) Vague scrawls not indicating any intention.

Possibly formal Ballot papers which are arguably formal.

The largest category of informal votes was “writing – deliberate”, with 893 votes, or 24.9% of the total. This was a substantial increase on this category at the State election (12.8%) and at the 2011 Broadmeadows by-election (17.1%).

Blank ballot papers were the second largest category of informal votes, with 22.1% of the total. There was a lower incidence of blank ballot papers than at the State election (25.1%), but slightly higher than at Broadmeadows (20.3%).

“Numbers – other” came third, with 607 votes, or 16.9% of the total. This proportion is higher than at the 2010 State election (12.4%). These votes were informal due to a variety of numbering errors, such as including two 1s, or skipping or duplicating numbers. The voters in this category do not seem to have spoiled their ballots on purpose, but to have made an unsuccessful attempt at a formal vote. These votes and the 210 votes (5.9%) in the “numbers – insufficient” category are presumably those who had difficulty coping with the relatively large number of candidates in the by-election.
The proportion of informal ballot papers with a single 1 was 6.6% – much lower than the 23.8% at the State election. At the State election, voters had two ballot papers to complete. On the Upper House ballot paper, voters had the choice of voting “1” above the line for a party or group, or numbering squares below the line. The second category of Lower House informal votes at the State election was “1 only”; it appears that many voters misapplied the Upper House voting method to their Lower House ballot paper. At the by-election, there was no such cause for confusion, and so the proportion of “1 only” votes was much lower.

Numbering errors were by far the largest of these categories, with 36.6% of the total, though this was a significant decline on the 50.1% of informal votes in this category at the State election. Ticks and crosses made up 12.6% of the informal votes – more than the 10.2% in this category at the State election. At 27%, writing errors made up a far greater proportion of the informal votes than the 13.9% at the State election.

More than three fifths of the ballot papers appear to have been deliberately informal. This is much more than at the State election (47.53% probably deliberate) and comparable with the 2007 Albert Park and Williamstown by-elections, when 65.3% of the informal votes were in this group. It appears likely that the substantial increase in deliberately informal voting at the Niddrie by-election is a consequence of the absence of a Liberal candidate.

Voters expressing a clear preference comprised 17.4% of the informal votes at the by-election – much lower than the 37.6% in this category at the State election.

Almost 50% of the by-election votes were accidentally informal, where voters appear to have tried to vote formally but did not understand what to do or could not carry out their intention correctly. These are the voters that the VEC needs to focus on in its communication campaigns.
FOR NOTING AND CONSIDERATION BY PARLIAMENT

Netbooks

The use of netbooks to mark the roll reduces scanning times, has the potential to reduce paper rolls and provides statistics on when voting actually occurs.

The electronic roll mark-off is linked to a central database, helping to identify those people who may have already voted, eliminating the risk of an elector voting multiple times in their own name.

The VEC requests that the Parliament notes the administrative benefits of the use of netbooks for roll mark-off, along with the increased capacity to support the operation of the Electoral Act 2002.

Party names

To avoid confusion, the VEC advised both the Democratic Labor Party (DLP) and the Australian Labor Party (ALP) to use their full names or abbreviations, and not to just use the word Labor when registering their how-to-vote cards. The VEC also requested that both parties use their registered names on other electoral material.

The VEC has issued a protocol in relation to party names. However, there remains a risk of the need to seek an injunction on election day if one or other of the parties ignores the protocol.

The VEC requests that the Parliament notes the VEC’s protocol for dealing with the DLP and ALP in relation to party names on electoral material.

Social media

The Queensland State election took place at the same time as the Niddrie District by-election. The VEC took approximately 700 early votes for the Queensland Electoral Commission. Throughout the voting period, the VEC became aware of a rapid escalation in the use of social media such as Twitter. This gave cause to reflect on previous advice from the Victorian Government Solicitor on the difficulties of authorising ‘tweets’ given the limited number of characters available in the medium.

The South Australian Parliament recently changed their electoral regulations to exclude blogging and applications such as Twitter from authorisation requirements.

The VEC recommends that the Parliament consider introducing legislation to exempt certain social media platforms from authorisation requirements.

Postal vote applications

The VEC has a continued concern that the blending of party political messages in postal vote applications frequently causes an erroneous assumption that the VEC supports the party that puts the document together.

The VEC currently issues a postal voting application protocol, but if the protocol is breached there is no penalty available.

The VEC recommends that the Parliament considers introducing legislation that eliminates party and candidate involvement with postal voting applications.

Proof of identity

At the Niddrie by-election, there were two applications for a provisional vote where the election official had indicated that they had sighted a Proof of Age card. As this is not a prescribed proof of identity document, the applications were rejected.

The Victorian Proof of Age card is used to verify that the person seeking to enter the licensed premises or purchase liquor is over 18 years of age. This card is recognised throughout Australia. The Victorian Commission for Gambling and Liquor Regulation administers the issuing of cards. The application form for a Proof of Age card doubles as an enrolment form for State and local government elections. So far this year we have received 1,325 such applications.

If a young person who does not have a driver licence goes to vote and finds they were removed from the roll through a non-resident objection, they cannot cast a provisional vote that will be accepted. People who have these cards do so because they don’t have a driver licence or learner permit.

The VEC recommends that Parliament considers amending the Electoral Regulations to include the Proof of Age card as a prescribed proof of identity document for provisional vote purposes.
